If you bright stars that gem the night Be each a blissful dwelling sphere, Where kindred spirits reunite-Whom death has torn asunder here; How sweet it were at once to die, Mixt soul to soul to cleave the sky. And leave this sinful orb afar,

And eoar away from star to star. But oh! how dark—how drear, how lone— Would seem the brighest world of bliss; If wandering thro' each radiant zone. We failed to find the loved of this. If there no mere the ties shall twine, That death's cold hand on earth does sever ! Ah! then those stars in mockery shine, More hateful as they shine forever.
